

Y Chair by YourSeat®

Executive Chair

Office space planning, more and more attention to staff area design, and management rooms become smaller, more efficient, in order to highlight simplicity and practicality. The executive chair is no longer presented in a heavy form, and the orientation of the executive chair and the staff chair becomes more and more blurred, and the appearance of the chair is basically consistent with the choice of the staff.

Y chair design story

The layout of bench desk in office space is more and more popular, people will not only work with colleagues in the opposite side to work together, but also need to communicate and exchange with colleagues behind them. The back frame of the chair is designed with a narrower upper part and a trapezoidal structure, which helps the arm stretch backwards to pick up the object. The back support is Y-shaped structure, the multi-line drawing enhances the stereoscopic feeling and fashion. The Y chair has been protected by the EU registered patent No. 003743970 / 0002, the USA registered patent No. 28148728.29591785 and the Chinese registered patent protection No. 2017 3 0005989.X.

Y chair with grey back frame

The cold-toned office space design helps employees focus on daily business, soft lighting, grey nylon back frame Y chair, with polished aluminum base, bring a low-key luxury and noble temperament. It helps the investors to improve their productivity and dress up the temperament of the whole office at the same time.

Colorful decoration or furniture

In the decoration process and the use of color, some industries, the field is bolder decorate, may be painted on the wall bright color, attract the eye, or later in the furniture to choose the jump color, so that the space looks less monotonous. When used as a moving color, more flexible embellishment of space.

Meeting Chair

The old conference rooms are mainly arcuate chairs, the pursuit of dignified, fixed, neat, but ignored the main functions of the conference room. People need to be more active and interactive in conference room time, because there is only enough brainstorming, the collision of thought and benefit by mutual discussion about new changes. Applying staff chairs with five-star base and casters to the conference room will help everyone to become more flexible and easier to communicate with the opposite, left and right, as they move from body to mind.
